Do you notice disconnect, or even dissent, within your multigenerational workforce, thus impacting morale, communication, and productivity? Many companies do, so they call Lisa!

Lisa Orrell, The Generation Relations Expert, is a dynamic speaker, consultant, and author of “Millennials Incorporated: The Big Business of Recruiting, Managing and Retaining The World’s New Generation of Young Professionals”. And, Lisa’s new book, “Millennials Into Leadership” (written for Millennials), will be published in the fall of 2009.

Lisa conducts in-demand presentations on how executive leadership and management teams can better engage with Millennial (aka Gen Y) talent, and she conducts seminars that help companies improve internal generation relations to increase employee morale, team building, revenue, communication, retention, and productivity. Lisa is also a Leadership Coach for Gen Y & X. She is focused on making young employees effective leaders at work quickly. Lisa received her coach training through an ICF-accredited program.

Contact Lisa today to work with your company...or to speak at your next event!

“Everyone loved you! There is so much excitement and ideas surfacing since your presentations. In addition, you have such engaging style that it feels like I’ve known you forever!”

—E. Wainwright, Vice President of Workforce Diversity & Inclusion, Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan
